

Food/ Culture Assignment

Students will have to experience 3 cultural foods each trimester. Foods may be

- 1) ordered at select restaurants or
- 2) may be prepared in home from recipes easily found on the internet.

Foods commonly eaten in the U.S. usually will not count and therefore many dishes found at local restaurants may not count (especially popular Mexican restaurants). If you are in doubt as to whether an item will count ask me.

Items may not be repeated and the form

1) must be filled out and signed by a parent

2) must be accompanied by you and the food in a photo(or post online, see your teacher for details).

(extra credit-3 points for GPS coordinates of a Spanish/Hispanic Restaurant location)

It IS possible, however, to complete this whole assignment in only 1 meal. You may even want to get together with others in the class to complete the assignment. If you are traveling to another country please consider doing this while traveling. Please refer to the list below for suggested items.

paella
flan
yemas
polvorones
magdalenas
sancocho
arroz y habichuelas
tostones
horchata
mexican hot chocolate
roscón de reyes
morir soñando
migas (Spain)
Tortilla española
gazpacho
turrón
empanadas
machaca
mate -(make sure and try this with someone who can explain correct method) dulce de batata
locro (Ecuador)
humitas
tortilla (Ecuador)
ceviche
arepa (Colombia)
rocoto relleno
arroz con gandules
carne asada(try making this) tamales
chorizo
pastel de tres leches
carlota
tapas

I will not count any type of burrito, taco or anything that resembles in name or appearance something from Taco Bell(If they use yellow cheese sauce or ground beef, you may want to go somewhere else). The purpose of the assignment is to eat/make foods you wouldn't have eaten/made without the assignment. Restaurants like Café Rio are very unlikely to have anything I would count for the assignment. If you have eaten it before it probably won't count. In most cases you will have never heard of it before this assignment.
